WIZARD WITH GUN TO DISPLAY SKILL

A thrill with every shot is no over-phrase by which to describe the remarkable feats performed by Adonis Topperwein, world famous shot, who is to give one of his great free exhibitions here on July 2nd. To any one here of the thousands who have seen of the astonishing exhibitions during the past third of a century this is not an exaggeration—it really falls far beyond.

For "Ad" Topperwein can not only fire, shotgun, pistol, obey as the perfectly trained circus animal, but the voice of his master. A Topperwein exhibition is a rapid fire succession of increasingly astounding things—done by Topperwein as simply as he would sit himself down to a meal, yet so startling that they amaze his audiences farly gasp.

His programs are noted for the variety of features and for the constant surprises he springs. Topperwein's bag of tricks is so well stocked that his programs vary greatly yet each is a well rounded exhibition that secures his audiences home in animated admiration and completely satisfied with a marvelously rare treat.

A recital of just a few of the Topperwein stunts will give some idea of the thrills his spectators may expect. For instance, he sets his targets about 40 feet apart. Then he will take his place half way between them and, facing one of the targets and with his back on the other, will break both targets at the same time. He fires at the target behind him by shooting over his shoulder with the aid of a mirror.

He will toss a number of small balls into the air, then pick his rifle up from the ground and break each one of the balls before it reaches the ground. He throws objects into the air, loads his gun and hits the flying objects before it can come down. Standing on his head with the aid of some one to assist him, he will shoot to shreds targets thrown into the air by some one else.

Topperwein breaks flying targets from all kinds of positions including lying flat on his back on the ground. He also has a varied menu of shooting features which he does with the aid of mirrors through which he sights targets from which he is looking away.

MANLESS WEDDING IS LOCAL RECORD

A wedding in which the groom was the only male actor established a new record for Statesboro Monday afternoon. Willie Turner, colored, was accompanied to the court house by Sallie Mae Jones, who headed him direct to the office of the ordinar. That official was out and his daughter, Miss Ouida Temples, was acting in his stead. She issued the permits and then Sallie was to perform as the wedding ceremony. Doubting her ability to do that, Miss Temples declined, but somebody suggested that the new justice of the peace was possible—and the new justice of the peace is Mrs. Clara Jones. So Sallie was called in and joined Willie as Sallie Mae in brief ceremony. There was no best man or bridesmaid or attendant. Willie was the whole church so far as his sex was represented.

30,000 Miles Annually By 1926 Model Pontiac

Pontiac Six number 1194, a coach model which has been in daily service since the Pontiac line first was introduced by the Oakland Motor Car Company four and one-half years ago, now shows a speedometer total of 137,716 miles, according to its owner, F. F. Fleetwood, of Royal Oak, Mich. The car has averaged about 30,000 miles per year.

"It's a little high off the ground and lacks the power and speed and four wheel brakes of the present Pontiac 'Big Sixes,'" said Mr. Fleetwood, "but it's still good for a lot of traveling."

"I bought it as a used car a couple of years ago and about the only maintenance expense has been a valve grinding job and some new tires."

CURING TOBACCO

Bulloch county's tobacco crop has begun to move toward the curing houses in active quantities. In practically every section of the county cured, first curings have been completed. FOUR YEARS ADDED
GEORGIA LIFE SPAN

WHITE MALES GAIN AVERAGE
OF 5.6 YEARS. ACCORDING TO STATISTICS.

The average life span of Georgians has been lengthened 4.8 years within the past seven years, adding nearly three billion dollars to the economic wealth of the state, according to statistics made public Monday by Dr. T. F. Abernethie, state commissioner of health. The biggest gain was made by white males, whose lives were lengthened from forty years in 1920 to an average of 45.6 in 1930.

Statistics produced by the Bureau of Vital Statistics showed that the life span in Georgia in 1923 was 38.4 years, whereas this year the average is 42.7 years or 4.3 per cent.

Thirty-nine per cent of the state's estimated population is gainfully employed, according to Census Bureau figures, the estimated population being 3,238,000. This would make 1,261,560 in gainful occupation. This number multiplied by 4.3 the addition to the life span, Dr. Abernethie said, would give 5,425,095 added years to the lives of present winners in Georgia.

The average annual income, according to statisticians and actuaries is $500. The prolongation of the life span would give an added $2,150 to the earning power, or $7,122,500 to the entire gainful employed population.

The biggest gain in length of life was by white males, whose lives were lengthened from 40.0 years in 1923 to 45.6 years in 1930, an increase of 5.6 years, or 14 per cent. White females showed an increase of from 42.2 year in 1923, to 47.1 years in 1930, a gain of 4.9 years, or 11.6 per cent.

Negro males registered an increase of from 35.3 years in 1923 to 39.5 in 1930, an increase of 3.7 years or 10.3 per cent. Negro females gained from 35.3 years in 1923 to 38.4 years in 1930, an increase of 3.1 years or 8.8 per cent.

The increased life span of all men in the state was greater than that of women. Men, in 1923, both white and negro, averaged an average age of 38.1 years and to 42.7 years in 1930, an increase of 4.6 years or 12.1 per cent.

The average life span of all women in the state in 1923 was 38.8 years and 1930 42.8 years, an increase of 4.0 years or 10.3 per cent.

Mexicans Build Roads
By Public Bull Fights

Atlanta, Ga., June 16.—A novel way of raising funds for highway construction was recently carried out in San Luis de la Paz, Mexico, when the entire proceeds of a bull fight were donated to the building of better Mexican roads, Georgia highway officials were informed today by Atlanta representatives of the Federal department of commerce.

The fiesta, said to be conceived and promoted by the "Pro-Highway Committee Dolores Hidalgo-San Luis de la Paz," was described by spectators as "one of the best bull fights held in these parts in many years," the report stated. An excellent spirit of co-operation was said to be shown by the breeders of the town, each one furnishing a bull as his contribution to the project. A high degree of enthusiasm also was said to have been demonstrated by the public to make the venture a financial success.

In taking this unique method of raising funds, the report said, the highway committee brought to the attention the many benefits to the community and to commerce resulting from road construction.

Guests At Supper

Statesboro's police force were guests last Wednesday evening at supper given by the Stevens Cafe, which was a most delightful affair. Manager Stevens has recently greatly improved the interior of the cafe and made it into a most inviting place. The service at the table is said to be the best ever given in the history of the place, and Stevens Cafe is a first.

FIRST MELONS REACH MARKET

The first watermelons of the season reached the local market Wednesday and were offered at reasonable prices—from 35 cents downward. They were Parsons and were large for variety.

It is understood that market melons are to begin moving about the first of next week and that several carloads will move during the week. The prospect for a good melon season is bright in Bulloch.

FAMOUS ARTIST AT TEACHERS COLLEGE

VARIETY PROGRAM TO BE REHEARSED THURSDAY EVENING PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND

Noah Behlzhaz, world famous impersonator and humorist, will give a special program at the Teachers College on Thursday, June 26th, at 8:30 p. m. This is one of the many programs which will be sponsored by the college for summer school entertainment.

Noah Behlzhaz is perhaps the most popular of all make-up artists known in the country today and is famous for his wonderful facial expression. In his quick changes before the audience he can use a daub of paint or a bit of powder to transform his face.

His programs are mixed with fun, fiction and philosophy, character impersonations, stories, a poem or two monologues and conversation. Several of his most prominent presentations are: "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," a rural comedy drama with a good deal of moral and a bull dog; "The End of the World," a love story full of humor and action; "Mister Antioch," a modern story, full of humor and pathos; and "The Music Master," by Charles Klein. More than sixty characters are at the command of Behlzhaz, including Jewish, Irish, farmers, women, artists and others.

This attraction will be followed by another laymen number about the middle of July. At that time the program will consist of a company of musical entertainers. The students of the college will be admitted free to these attractions. Outsiders will be charged fifty cents. The students use practically every seat in the auditorium and space will be limited for both attractions.

Making Check-Up of Statesboro's Count

Committees from the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce have been engaged during the past few days in making a check-up on Statesboro's census report. No figures as to the count have been released by the district director, and there is no insight as to the probable figures, however, it is believed that Statesboro will show a slight increase from the figures of ten years ago. There is no question that large numbers of colored citizens have left during the past ten years, going north, and many whites have practically come to Georgia to be returned; but at the same time there have been some new citizens moved into Statesboro. The work of the checking committees during the present week reveals that quite a number of persons were overlooked in the count two months ago, some of whom were out of town temporarily. It is believed that a hundred or more new names will be added by the recount and that the final figures will be slightly above those of ten years ago.

ALFRED DORMAN TO AGAIN BE HOST

WILL ENTERTAIN FRIENDS AT ANNUAL DINNER ON NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Alfred Dorman has been in Statesboro ten years. These have been prosperous years for him and happy years for his friends. Not only has he brought business and prosperity to his community, but he has brought sunshine and happiness to his friends as an opportunity offered.

Dorman is going to celebrate the tenth anniversary of his coming with appropriate exercises next Wednesday, July 25th. This plan of Dorman's is an annual event, except that next Wednesday's affair is going to be bigger than he ever attempted before.

Dinner will be served to the thousand invited guests at Brannen's Park in West Statesboro. This is an invitational affair to which guests will be admitted by tickets. These invitations have been mailed to his friends at a distance and delivered in person to local friends. They will come from a dozen neighboring counties and the coming will be worth while.

There will be no stilled and irksome program for the day. Dorman will have some of his friends make short talks; there will be music; he will distribute prizes of value to those present, and a big boxing match will crown the event.

Statesboro will be practically closed for the event beginning at 12 o'clock. The stores, listed below have agreed to close for the afternoon for participation in the festivities:

50 Years' Use of Black-Draught

"About fifty years ago," says Mr. Lewis O. Shields, of Portersville, Ala., "my mother gave me the first dose of Black-Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children."

"I have used Black-Draught for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes from constipation."

"I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and backache."

"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in the home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time."

CANNON IS ANGRY WITH HIS BROKERS

Letters and telegrams which passed between Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Virginia, and the now defunct "bucket shop" of Kable & Co., of New York, as well as those between Cannon and Harry L. Goldhurst, a member of the brokerage firm, show that Cannon lost heavily in his stock dealings and became angry over his losses.

They further show that Cannon placed orders for stock on Sundays, and that in corresponding with Goldhurst, who is now serving a term in the Atlanta prison because of his operations with Kable & Co., the churchman used stationery of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In one communication to the firm he said he had gotten an advance of $1,000 on his salary to pay for stocks he had purchased.

It is considered probable that the question of prosecuting Cannon for contempt of the Senate will be decided by the Senate itself today. The lobby committee, after a two-hour stormy session last night, decided to refer the whole Cannon problem to the full Senate for a decision. Cannon defied the committee when that body questioned him as to how and where money was expended in the last presidential campaign.

The correspondence revealed the following:

1. Cannon frequently placed orders for the purchase of stock by telephone or cable on Sundays. He is understood to have denied this during his recent trial at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Dallas.

2. Cannon bought stocks on margin, trading heavily in highly speculative motors and other industrial stocks.

3. He corresponded with the bucket shop on stationery of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service, an act on that of the Virginia State Anti-Saloon League.

4. The bishop frequently complained that he was hard pressed for cash to meet his stock-purchasing obligations. This was especially during the latter part of 1927 and the early part of 1928.

5. On one occasion he wrote he had obtained an advance of $1,000 on his salary to help pay for 200 shares of International Match.

6. Evidently disturbed at his losses, he complained that the firm of Kable & Co. was not advised "by prophets of the first grade."

7. Early in 1928 he complained that his "friend in the bank was alarmed" insisting upon a statement of his account, in a wire to Goldhurst.

8. On one occasion he advised Goldhurst against communicating with him at Washington.

During his three days on the witness stand, during which he defied the committee to question him about his political activities, Cannon was insistent that it would be a violation of his personal rights to place his trading accounts in the record.

The committee finally upheld his contention yesterday over the emphatic protest of Senator Blaine (R.) of Wisconsin, who pointed out that the accounts of Chairman Claudius M. Houston of the Republican national committee, had been used as a part of the official record.

Some of the earlier letters passing from Bishop Cannon to Goldhurst were signed "affectionately and sincerely," indicating a close friendship.

In a letter written February 4, 1929, Cannon asked Goldhurst for information on Transcontinental Oil and "possible merger." The letter in longhand, bore the following postscript:

In a letter dated February 3, 1928, Cannon asserted he was distressed at the failure of Porto Rico, Fishman, Remington and Interborough Transit to advance in price. This letter added:

"I note and approve sales of Motors for profit and think there may be some profit in last purchase at 138%, but that stock is too expensive for me to handle except for quick turn on good recouping."

"I wish you had used some similar judgment and sold Interborough at 30. I do not think I can reach New York 'til Wednesday noon, but will come earlier if possible to get loose from official business. I am afraid the pools on Fishman, Remington and Interborough have quit the job."

On February 24, 1928, Kable & Co. advised the bishop that if he could raise $1,000 to cover the balance on 200 shares of a certain stock, it was certain to net 10 points profit immediately.

Housewife or Grocer

Whose interest should come first

A & P, though a grocer itself, votes for the housewife. She has a right to as much good food as her money can buy under the most favorable conditions.

Not everyone takes this view. By some strange reasoning certain people see harm to human welfare in cutting your food bill. A & P cuts your food bill to the minimum. So these people are against A & P.

They are all for raising the standard of living—provided their profits go up the same slope. How the housewife is to pay her part . . . that, they say, is her affair, not the grocer's.

A few misguided persons have taken up the cry, shouting "Away with low profits!" as loudly as, when it suited their purpose to denounce profiteers, they shouted, "Away with high profits!"

But A & P sticks to its knitting. Its job is the same today as it was seventy years ago . . . to make it easier for more housewives to buy the best food.

ONLY FAIR SYSTEM TAXES EVERYBODY

EVERY PERSON WHO GETS PROTECTION SHOULD PAY FOR HIS BENEFITS.

(From Arkansas Farmer)

This is the principle that everybody—provided they have property or income with which to pay, and in proportion to the value of the protection they receive—should pay taxes. That is, taxes should be applied universally to all—no exemptions to any class or industry. Without exception the government protects the property and lives of all, regulates and encourages the business of all, establishes schools for all, builds roads for all, provides for the health of all, and promotes the general welfare of all. The conclusion is inescapable that, without exception, or exemption, all should pay taxes.

But the insidious doctrine of exemptions from taxation are ever with us. This doctrine is very comforting to those receiving the exemptions. The recipients of these special favors are sure it is right, positive it is for the general good, and piously hold that the exemptions are a part of the Lord's providential interposition in the affairs of man. 'Twas ever thus. Some of the properties for which exemptions are claimed and sometimes secured are: Money, notes, accounts, mortgages, insurance policies, idle land, stocks, bonds, vacant buildings, improvements on real estate, business industries, new capital for investment in the state.

"Why penalize my business by taxation—why not encourage it by tax exemption?" argues the defender of special privileges. We cannot encourage any business by tax exemption without discouraging every other business by piling on its back the tax burdens exempted to the favored business. Taxes are not a penalty on any business. Taxes are only the equitable shares of debt each business owes the government.

"But mortgages and notes should be exempted from taxation, then we can give lower interest rates to borrowers and 'this will help the poor debtors,'" and sham tears come to the pleading eyes of the money lenders. Even if this pretense were true, the logic would be false. For giving lower interest rates to the borrower is not contributing to the support of the government. Interest is a private concern, a matter of bargain between individuals. Taxes are a public matter. Taxes are levied by the state to provide revenue for its upkeep. The state must be fair to all its citizens, whether rich or poor, whether lender or borrower or neither. The state is founded, as all republics are founded, on the principle of equal rights for all and special privileges for none.

If mortgages and notes should be exempted from taxation in a vain attempt to lower interest rates, then grocery stores should be exempted to lower the cost of food, dry goods stores should be exempted to lower the cost of clothing, furniture stores should be exempted to lower the cost of household goods, railroads should be exempted to lower the cost of freight, and other industries likewise, and then who would pay the mounting cost of government? But none of these tax exemptions would have any appreciable effect of reducing prices, for prices are not determined by competition, but by the law of supply and demand. For five years now mortgages have been tax free and notes nearly so, yet interest rates have not been reduced.

Every business has overhead expenses that cannot be avoided. No business would call in its laborers and announce that it could not or would not pay for labor, and that pay for labor has been suspended, or exemplified. That business would immediately have no laborers. No business claims exemption from rent or interest or freight or repairs, or any other overhead—except that tax dodgers claim exemption from that overhead due the government that furnishes the greatest service of all—protection of life.

"OCCASIONAL SOCIALISTS"

It is a common human failing to put selfish interests ahead of general principles.

This is never better illustrated than in the endless argument over government in business. A multitude of business men who declare themselves opposed to socialism in general, change their tune when some project is proposed that might be of personal benefit. Thousands of rampant "individualists" have championed Boulder Dam, the Farm Relief Bureau, federal waterway developments and the like.

These persons might be called "occasional socialists." They are, usually, supporters of individual initiative and enterprise and the Jeffersonian ideal of a minimum of government. But the desire to get electric service or freight transportation or government money at public expense, often rides rough-shod over their "principles."

A POLITICAL HUMBUG

A determined campaign has been waged for many years to make the people believe that government ownership of the power industry would be a great public blessing. The importance of the proposition has been magnified out of all proportion to any merit attaching to the theory.

Suppose the government owned all sources of electric power production in the country and gave every household the power for nothing. The amount saved the average family would be an infinitesimal part of the family income.

It is a hundred times more important to advocate that the government furnish the public food, clothing and rent at cost, for these three items take the bulk of the family income. Why should this nation, which was founded and has progressed on a government policy which encourages private initiative and enterprise and protects private property rights, give up these time-tested practices for a socialistic theory that brings increased taxation, a horde of office holders and the stifling of private enterprise? If the government is going into ownership of industry, it had better furnish milk at cost to start with instead of electricity. This would mean more to the average family and save it more money. Children can get along without electricity but they must have milk.

LOOK TO THE FUTURE

We live in an age of many issues. Practically every major problem has bred a multitude of disputes and disagreements.

Therefore, the fact that the American press is overwhelmingly in favor of strict oil conservation is interesting as proof that practical action to effect this is vital to our progress and to the well-being of future generations.

In the words of the Lowell, Massachusetts, Courier Citizen, "if it would be a public benefaction if the sinking of oil wells were restricted to the point which our needs dictate, and the earth be continued as a storage reservoir for that which we do not immediately need."

Conservation, of course, would benefit the oil industry. But that is of secondary importance. The main thing is that petroleum is twentieth-century gold. The country which possesses it automatically becomes an industrial world-leader.

We have been singularly blessed in the magnitude of our petroleum resources. But that is no excuse for wasting them. Overproduction is an economic crime and a menace to progress.

Not for the industry's sake, or the sake of the present generation, but for the sake of the America of tomorrow oil conservation which eliminates waste, must be achieved.

COUNTY AGENT

Dr. Lynn Z. Morris, formerly connected with the University of Tennessee, department of animal and poultry nutrition and under whose direction the formula and research of Security Mills at Knoxville are made, and directing the operation of the Security Experimental farm, will be in Statesboro Friday and Saturday at the service of Bulloch county poultrymen. He is a recognized authority on bird diseases, but being modest, more can be learned from him by asking questions in a sort of round-table discussion. He is not a salesman, but knows poultry from a scientific as well as a practical standpoint. He knows southern conditions, as he is a native of Tennessee. He comes at the special request of Ray Sheppard, local Security Mills representative, and is at the service of all poultrymen. He can be found either at the county agent's office or at Josh T. NeSmith's place. On Saturday afternoon he will be at the court house at 3 o'clock and will be glad to discuss problems with all poultrymen collectively or individually.

E. P. JOSEY, County Agent.

321 CARS GEORGIA

PEACHES SHIPPED

Atlanta, June 17.—Hileys, the first of the free-state peach varieties, will begin to move from Georgia groves Wednesday or Thursday, followed by first shipments of Elbertas around June 27th and 28th, reports to the State Bureau of Markets indicate.

Through Friday, June 15th, there had been shipped 321 cars of early varieties, composed of Mayflowers, Unedas and Early Rose. At the same date last year 700 cars had been shipped, with 170 cars in 1928.

"Prices thus far have been steady for the peach crop," A. D. Jones, director, says. "However, from reports received in the bureau, some of the peaches shipped to date were pulled too green, with the result that they sold for less than if the growers had given the fruit a day or two longer on the trees. Don't pull too early. It is bound to adversely affect the market," Mr. Jones warns.

Elbertas, which will begin to move around June 27 or 28, is Georgia's most important variety of peaches, with Hileys ranking second. Indications now are that both Hileys and Elbertas will bring good prices for large and medium sizes.

There has been no change in the estimated number of cars of peaches that the state will ship this year. The total will be around 7,000 cars, Mr. Jones says.

Blood Hounds Used For Forest Protection

Atlanta, June 16.—The first instance of the use of blood hounds in forest fire prevention is reported to the Georgia Forest Service from Treutlen county where M. H. Newsome, a member of a timber protective organization, has employed these means. Besides conforming to the rules and regulations of the Georgia Forest Service for forest control, he has gone one better and decided to use blood hounds for detection of these guilty of starting fires.

Report has it that Mr. Newsome recently found opportunity to use his hounds following an outbreak of forest fire. The dogs took up the trail and finally treed a negro. The negro was sentenced to one year in the chain gang and has provided an impressive example to all in the region that starting forest fires is a serious business.

After saving $5,000, Henry Ketten, of Chicago, wrote Miss Rachel Stein that he was "too poor to marry." She sued him and was awarded half of the $3,000.

Mrs. Kate Bates, who applied to 26 women for the job of cook and borrowed money from each to go home for her effects, is in jail in Chicago for swindling.

WIZARD WITH GUNS TO DISPLAY SKILL

that Toppervin does is the drawing with bullets of cartoons. Using his section formula, he drew a cartoon, quickly outlines a head of an Indian, an Uncle Sam or some of the popular cartoon characters and draws it right before the audience's eyes on a sheet of tin. These striking likenesses are made in three or four minutes of rapid fire shooting and are done, as said from him by asking questions in a sort of round-table discussion. He is not a salesman, but knows poultry from a scientific as well as a practical standpoint. He knows southern conditions, as he is a native of Tennessee. He comes at the special request of Ray Sheppard, local Security Mills representative, and is at the service of all poultrymen. He can be found either at the county agent's office or at Josh T. NeSmith's place. On Saturday afternoon he will be at the court house at 3 o'clock and will be glad to discuss problems with all poultrymen collectively or individually.

On more than a dozen occasions he has broken world's records for rifle shooting at flying targets. At one time he broke $5 out of 100 wood blocks, two and a half inch cubes, which he threw himself and then shot at from an automobile going at thirty miles an hour.

Another of his records is 4,954 breaks out of 5,000 targets, one and three quarters inch only. And, even more remarkable record is that of 9,999 out of 10,000 of the 2 1/2 inch targets. One miss in 10,000.

Perhaps his most remarkable record in many ways was that made at San Antonio, Texas, in July 1907, when he shot eight hours a day for ten days and missed only nine out of 72,000 of these wooden blocks tossed into the air by an assistant. Out of the first 50,000 targets Toppervin missed but four. In this shooting he both shot at the targets and did all the loading of the rifle also.

In this remarkable test of shooting skill and endurance Toppervin held straight runs of 14,540; 15,597; 15,292 and 10,383. It isn't likely this record will ever be beaten. It is a tremendous strain to undergo such a performance. From the standpoint of endurance and the number of targets shot at and broken this feat stands as the world's greatest shooting performance.

Ad Toppervin has no set program for his exhibition. His wonderful stunts lead themselves to an indefinite variety of programs, all equally marvelous and interesting. Much depends upon the size of the grounds as limited space sometimes makes it impossible for him to use some of the features which he can give when space is unlimited.

21,167 SAMPLES ANALYZED IN 1929

Atlanta, June 17.—During the 12 months of 1929, a total of 21,167 samples of fertilizers, feeds and foods were analyzed in the chemical laboratories affiliated with the State Department of Agriculture.

Commercial fertilizers lead the list with 16,862 official samples analyzed, the greatest number ever taken and reported on in the history of the department.

Other items passing through the hands of the state chemist included 869 samples of food; 844 samples of milk; 525 of drugs; 451 samples of animal feeds; 291 samples of insecticides; 657 samples of oysters and oyster-bell water, besides a large number of miscellaneous items.

Impure and often harmful foods and feeds are driven off the market and the health and lives of Georgia citizens protected by the state department of agriculture through information secured from samples analyzed. Dr. Frampton King, state chemist, points out in his report to Commissioner Eugene Talmadge. In like manner, analysis of fertilizers, insecticides and fungicides, particularly those used on cotton, tobacco, fruits and nuts, makes it impossible for the regulatory forces of the department to prevent the sale of adulterated, misbranded and often harmful mixtures.

The actual value of this service is realized when it is recalled that last year Georgia farmers purchased $68,911 tons of fertilizer for which they paid more than $300,000,000. Approximately one ton of every seven tons sold was sampled and analyzed.

The state chemist analyzes all official samples taken by the fertilizer division, the state entomologist and the state veterinarian.

Winner of $30,000 in an "ugly man's contest." R. M. Roney donated the money to the Melbourne hospital.

HOOVER TARIFF IS AN ADDED BURDEN

COTTON FARMER BUYS IN WORLD'S HIGHEST MARKETS WHICH ARE MADE HIGHER.

Atlanta, June 24.—Southern farmers will receive no relief from the Republican tariff bill recently passed, rather it adds to the already heavy economic burden of Southern agriculture, Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, declares, adding that the new law creates a condition that cannot last long.

"The cotton farmer of the South buys in the highest market in the world," says Mr. Talmadge, "and the present tariff law makes that market higher. Then he must sell his products in the lowest market in the world, because he comes in competition with peon laborers earning from ten to twenty cents a day. This condition can't last long."

"Campaign promises made farmers in the past thirty years have just about put the farmers out of business," he declares.

"While the Republican party promised tariff relief to the farmers of the country, the two big presidents signed a few days ago fails to grant relief on cotton. We wanted a high million bales of cotton, but this duty on bales which displaces three were refused. No duty was placed on vegetables which come from the Philippines."

"A few of the many items affected by the bill are: The duty on corn was raised from fifteen cents a bushel to twenty-five cents a bushel. The duty on oats was raised. The duty on rough rice was raised. The duty on dried cherries was raised from two cents a pound to six cents a pound. The duty on marshmallow, chocolate, was placed at nine and a half cents a pound and a forty cent ad valorem. The duty had been only an ad valorem. So there won't be many marshmallow cherries imported into this country for the next few years. The duty on lemons was raised, on half a cent a pound. The duty on green peas was raised from one cent to three cents a pound. The duty on onions was raised from one and a half cents a pound to two and a half cents a pound. The duty on tomatoes was raised from one-half cent a pound to three cents a pound. And last, but not least, broom corn was taken from the free list and placed at twenty dollars a ton. Look out! Your brooms are going to cost you more, as are whist brooms, brushes, etc. You better bring some broom sage this fall before the frost hits it," says Mr. Talmadge.

S. Stewart, of the University of Georgia, state high school inspector, who has completed a study of school enrollments and equipment. Senior classes during the past year had a total of 12,027 as compared with 11,803 for the previous session.

The number of accredited schools in Georgia increased during the present session from 393 to 407. Of these 407 accredited schools 378 are white with a total of 54,928 students, and 29 are colored with a total of 4,861 students.

SPALDING FARMER RAISES NO COTTON

FREE OF DEBT AND DOING WELL WITH DIVERSIFIED CROPS: HOGS AND POULTRY.

(Jackson Progress-Argus)

It has been said that if a dog bites a man that is not news, but if the man bites the dog that is news. If a farmer loses money farming that is not news, but if he makes money farming that is news. It is news out of the ordinary when he makes money farming without the help of cotton.

Butts county has a farmer, Mr. George F. Etheridge, who is doing well without planting any cotton. With his chickens and cows and other sources of income he is not fretting about the boll weevil or the price of cotton this fall.

Spalding county comes to the bat with a "cottonless" farmer. The following from the Griffin News will be of interest to readers of the Progress-Argus.

P. P. Patrick, Cabin district farmer, is making money by "letting cotton alone," according to John Harlow, county demonstration agent. Mr. Patrick operates a farm in Cabin district that is free of debt and has an active account in a local bank, it is stated.

Eight years ago Mr. Patrick made a failure with cotton and decided he was through with the fleecy staple. He turned to diversified crops. He raises poultry and hogs, grows grain corn and Oatman beans. Every year he raises and sells from 2,000 to 3,000 fryers. In addition he does a good business in day old chicks and eggs for setting.

His flock of 10 Rhode Island Reds.

Mr. Patrick finds ready sale for his large crop of Oatman beans. He feeds the hay from the beans to his stock and sells the beans as seed to other farmers. Just at present the beans are bringing $5.50 a bushel and there is an active demand for them.

"What Mr. Patrick has done other farmers can do," said Mr. Harlow this morning. "He combines hard work with intelligent management of his farm and today he is one of the few farmers in the county who is 'sitting pretty'."

MELON PRODUCERS EXPECT MILLIONS

BUMPER CROP WILL BRING TWO MILLION DOLLARS TO GEORGIA FARMERS.

Atlanta, June 24.—Growers in the South Georgia watermelon belt expect to receive $2,000,000 for shipments by July 15th, or soon thereafter, according to reports received by the State Bureau of Markets. It is predicted that Cook, Colquitt, Brooks, Lowndes, Mitchell, Thomas, Tift and Worth will ship as many cars this season as last when these counties loaded cars as follows:

Brooks, 2,698; Colquitt, 1,944; Cook, 342; Lowndes, 663; Mitchell, 764; Thomas, 2,543; Tift, 981, and Worth, 907.

Other counties from which 300 or more cars were shipped in 1929 include the following:

Baldwin, 515; Bibb, 347; Bulloch, 662; Dodge, 535; Dooley, 1,080 Grady, 425; Houston, 576; Irwin, 625; Jones, 549; Laurens, 481; Macon, 337; Peach, 301; Schley, 323; Turner, 582, and Wilkinson, 866.

The state as a whole shipped 21,181 cars in 1929 as compared with 17,558 in 1928 and 16,744 in 1927.

Showers and cool weather last week delayed shipments somewhat. Up to June 18, 1929, the Georgia melon growers had shipped 1,669 cars, while only 93 cars had been shipped to the same date this year.

The total shipments of melons from the United States, in entirety, to June 18, 1929, was 11,758 cars, compared with 4,989 cars this season.

EDITORS MEETING IS WELL ATTENDED

(D. G. B., in Savannah News)

Statesboro, Ga., June 23.—After a delicious luncheon at the Jackel Hotel tendered them at the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce, the members of the First District Press Association reorganized, revived and revitalized the organization with the election to day of the following officers:

Robert E. L. Majors, Claxton Enterprise, president; Paul Rarden, Greenville Sentinel, vice-president; and D. G. Bickers, Savannah Morning News, secretary. The place of the next meeting was announced as Claxton, the date to be given out by the president in due time—"some time soon after the tobacco market closes," he warned.

Paul Rarden, of Greenville and D. B. Turner, of the Bulloch Times, were named a committee to prepare a suitable memorial to the late W. L. Sullivan, of the Waynesboro True Citizen, for several years an officer of the organization.

Enthusiastic thanks were voted to the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce, and J. E. McCroan, Guy Wells, Dave Turner and Peter Donaldson for the hospitality extended to the writers.

The party went in the morning to the South Georgia Teachers College, inspected the buildings, visited and greeted many of the classes, was amazed at the improvement of the grounds, and even more astounded at the announcement that more than 600 students are registered and attending the summer school courses. The chapel hour was changed so that the visitors might meet the student body. Each class was presented by its county contingent as the newspaper fellows stood upon the stage and the big groups, one after another, rose in the packed auditorium.

The local editor, Mr. Turner; Guy Wells, president of the institution; Lowry Axley, head of the English department of the Statesboro High School, and head of the classes in Journalism, and D. G. Bickers, of the Morning News, spoke briefly to the assembly.

After further visitation of the various points of interest on the beautiful campus the visitors assembled at the dining room of the hotel, now under new management, and after a luncheon of such a stupor that they finished the day with a nap.

At the close of his talk, Mr. McDougald, a sort of super-manager for Dorman, began to tell what it was all about. McDougald made a stirring talk—a splendid review of the causes which have led up to Dorman's success and popularity in this community. The governor said that the first aid presented Mr. Dorman with a shovel as an emblem of his active reputation.

Preceding Mr. McDougald, however, Mayor J. B. Everett had extended a welcome to the big crowd of Dorman's friends. His words were well chosen and forcible.

Mr. Dorman took charge of affairs following the receipt of the shovel, and he began to pass out cheer. He made announcement as to the plans for the dinner and the events which were to follow throughout the afternoon. The dinner was spread upon a series of long tables and a hundred or more ladies were in charge of the distribution of the eats. They were literally on the job. At other tables were cold drinks, including imitation lemons of Milwaukee's famous product, ice cold. Accompanying were shrimp—the big variety which soon fill a normal appetite—and pretzels and ice water.

Following the dinner Dorman distributed $500 worth of prizes among his patrons. This distribution was followed by a boxing match at the armory; then a watermelon cutting at the Teachers College, with Guy Wells and his faculty as hosts; then a baseball game at the college field to which Dorman's guests were admitted by badge. The entire affair drew to an end with a dance at the armory which began at 10 o'clock.

Alfred Dorman has been in Statesboro ten years and has contributed much to every advance step in the community during that time. He has grown from a small business man to a large business man. He will have to spread his feet a good deal on anything bigger than yesterday's celebration.

(Jackson Progress-Argus)

It has been said that if a dog bites a man that is not news, but if the man bites the dog that is news. If a farmer loses money farming that is not news, but if he makes money farming that is news. It is news out of the ordinary when he makes money farming without the help of cotton.

Butts county has a farmer, Mr. George F. Etheridge, who is doing well without planting any cotton. With his chickens and cows and other sources of income he is not fretting about the boll weevil or the price of cotton this fall.

Spalding county comes to the bat with a "cottonless" farmer. The following from the Griffin News will be of interest to readers of the Progress-Argus.

P. P. Patrick, Cabin district farmer, is making money by "letting cotton alone," according to John Harlow, county demonstration agent. Mr. Patrick operates a farm in Cabin district that is free of debt and has an active account in a local bank, it is stated.

Eight years ago Mr. Patrick made a failure with cotton and decided he was through with the fleecy staple. He turned to diversified crops. He raises poultry and hogs, grows grain corn and Oatman beans. Every year he raises and sells from 2,000 to 3,000 fryers. In addition he does a good business in day old chicks and eggs for setting.

His flock of 10 Rhode Island Reds.

Mr. Patrick finds ready sale for his large crop of Oatman beans. He feeds the hay from the beans to his stock and sells the beans as seed to other farmers. Just at present the beans are bringing $5.50 a bushel and there is an active demand for them.

"What Mr. Patrick has done other farmers can do," said Mr. Harlow this morning. "He combines hard work with intelligent management of his farm and today he is one of the few farmers in the county who is 'sitting pretty'."
